Speak Like a Local!

In Scotland, people speak English, but they use some wonderful words that you might not hear at home! Try using these words on your trip to sound like a true Scot.

The Everyday Slang:

- Yes: Aye (Eye)
- Small / Tiny: Wee (Wee)
- Child / Kid: Bairn (Bearn)
- Boy: Laddie
- Girl: Lassie

A dynamic combo: "A wee bairn" means a little child!

The Explorer Phrases:

- A beautiful day: It's a bonnie day (It's a bon-nee day)
- It's raining/drizzling: It's dreich outside (It's dree-kh outside — make a soft scraping sound in the back of your throat for the 'ch'!)
- Where is the castle?: Where is the braw castle? (Braw means brilliant or fine!)

Safety Phrases:

If you ever get separated from your grown-ups, don't worry! Look for a "safe person" like a shopkeeper, a historic site guide (they usually wear high-vis vests or uniforms), or a police officer. Use these phrases to get help quickly:

- I need help: I need a hand, please.
- I am lost: I've lost my grown-ups.
- My parents' number: Can you help me call my mum/dad?

Explorer Tip: Keep a small card in your pocket with your parents' phone numbers written on it. You can show it to a safe person and say: "Could you please help me call this number?"

The Legend of Loch Ness

Nessie: The World's Best Hide-and-Seek Champion!

Loch Ness is a massive, deep blue lake surrounded by misty hills. It holds more water than all the lakes and rivers in England and Wales combined! But it isn't just famous for its size—it is world-famous for the legend of Nessie, the Loch Ness Monster.

For hundreds of years, people have claimed to see a large, mysterious creature with a long neck and bumpy humps swimming through the dark water. Some people think she looks like a friendly, prehistoric dinosaur!

Drawing Activity: What's Under the Waves?

Deep, Dark Loch Ness

Your Turn:

Nobody knows exactly what Nessie looks like, which means you get to decide! Use your imagination to draw the ultimate Loch Ness Monster under the water.

- Is Nessie wearing a cozy tartan hat or a pair of underwater sunglasses?
- Does she have a secret underwater cave filled with treasures she found at the bottom of the loch?
- Are there other friendly lake creatures swimming alongside her?

Did You Know?

Scientists have explored Loch Ness using high-tech submarines, underwater cameras, and sonar equipment (which uses sound waves to "see" underwater). While they haven't found a dinosaur yet, they did find a massive, 30-foot-long model of Nessie at the bottom of the loch! It turned out to be a movie prop that sank during a film shoot in 1969.
